We are urged, however, to observe the fast from midnight, or, at least for three hours. While always welcome, non-Catholics and those who do not accept the traditional teachings of the Church in matters of faith and morals, are NOT to receive Communion at this Mass. To receive Holy Communion do so in silence- do not say Amen.

It finally arrived!!! Monday, the LAST day of school! There was yelling! There was screaming! There was hugging and running madly in circles! Even tears of joy were shed. The students, fortunately, were more composed than the teachers!!! About 10:00, the annual Wheel Day rolled into town. This is where the students were allowed to bring their favorite "wheeled vehicles" to school and tear around the parking lot for an hour and a half. Sorry, no Camaros or 'Vettes, but there were a lot of skateboards, bikes and Razors. And lots and lots of wheelies, brodies and competition – even a few crashes (but nothing serious!) They wore themselves out!!! Thereafter they received their report cards and were able to sleep-in Tuesday morning. And what did they see in their report cards? Well here's the lay of the land:

Idle hands are the devil's workshop, warns the adage. Are Idle minds any better? While summer is certainly a time of relaxation and exploration, it ought not be given over to indulgence, particularly for young adults who will return to their education in a few short months. "Tolle, lege" admonished the voice to St. Augustine; "take and read." Sound advice to a student, but where to begin? How about a selection from Charles Dickens, Herman Melville, or Catholic historian and teacher Warren Carroll? Then there are, Hilaire Belloc, Thomas a' Kempis or John Milton, (who is not to be missed) especially his Paradise Lost which describes the fall of man. Paradise Lost, which essentially reads as prose, is an "epic poem" which means, it is sublime, because it doesn't rhyme!
