THANKSGIVING AFTER COMMUNION~ Reverence, gratitude and our own interests make thanksgiving a duty incumbent on us. First, Reverence. When Our Savior honors us so far as to come to us, is it not just, that all the powers of our soul should assemble together, as it were, around Him, to keep Him company, to render to Him their homage, to speak to Him and to listen to Him? Would it not be a strange irreverence to leave Him alone in the bottom of our hearts, to pay no attention to Him and to occupy ourselves with other things? Is it thus that we receive a great personage or a friend who comes to visit us? Second, Gratitude. We ought to thank God the Father, who gives us no longer the manna which He gave to the Israelites in the desert, but His own Son. We ought to thank God the Son who gives Himself wholly to us, continually to us, without ever exhausting Himself. If we did but comprehend what gratitude this gift of God deserves, our hearts would melt with love. Finally, Our Own Interests. It is in the moments which follow Communion that the soul can best enjoy Jesus Christ, be filled with His spirit, and be penetrated with his love. It is then that Jesus is best disposed to enlighten, inflame and touch the soul. Then, does the Sacrament produce its principal effect, provided no obstacles are met. To neglect the act of thanksgiving would be to place an obstacle in the way of grace. It would be to imitate the poor man who will not wait for the alms which the rich man is about to bestow.

The Manner of Making Thanksgiving~ The first means is to listen to what Jesus Christ says to the heart at so precious a moment, and to follow the attractions of grace. The second manner is to produce acts, primarily of adoration, admiration and love. Of adoration which consists in annihilating ourselves in the presence of the infinite greatness of Our Lord while remaining in a state of abasement at His feet. Of admiration that so great a God would descend so low; and of love, desiring nothing but Jesus in the world.

Another manner of making Thanksgiving is to produce acts of gratitude which we owe to Him for so great a benefit and which we beg of Him to offer to God in our stead. Also, to make the requests which we ought to address to Him, telling Him in all simplicity and confidence, what are our needs and our miseries, like a child who speaks to his father. It is then the moment to ask everything and to obtain everything. We should offer the whole of ourselves to Him, consecrating to Him all that we are and all that we have to be disposed of in accordance with His good pleasure. Lastly, we must make the good resolutions which ought to be the fruits of our Communion. Is it thus that we perform our acts of thanksgiving?
